RE: Northwest Territorial Mint, LLC, Bankruptcy Proceedings
Case No. 16-11767-CMA

To Whom It May Concern:

The American Dahlia Society, Inc., has a long history of doing business with Medallic Arts Company. That company has held the dies used for our medal for far more than twenty (20) years. We last requested and received medals from Medallic Arts Company in 2017. Our business relationship has remained current. The letter we received from the legal firm K & L Gates advises we must file an objection with the Court if we oppose the sale of the dies to the Medalcraft Sale Motion. Our concern centers on avoiding the loss, destruction or other disposition of the dies that will prevent the American Dahlia Society from having medals minted in the future. Our medal is considered to be serious one-of-a-kind artwork. It is of significant historical value to our society and it also is something we believe to be irreplaceable. If the new company, Metalcraft Mint, Inc. plans to takeover and continue servicing legacy customers like our society, we will embrace the probability that we shall continue to have our medal needs fulfilled by that company. If this is not the case and the dies are in fact in jeopardy of being unavailable for future use, we ask that we receive notification and instructions as to what course of action we should then take to preserve our interests. Please find enclosed images of the medal in question for your information.

Sincerely yours,

Jerry Landerholm
